April 11th 1998 - Came out today to drop off this new register, figured a park this awesome deserves it. What a beautiful day!! Kind of windy, well actually really windy, but sunny and warm. The winter run off is still substantial enough for the stream to flow in the gully that the trail from Belogavia Lake Beach follows. It just doesn't get much better. To everyone reading and signing this: All I can say is that I hope you've enjoyed this amazing place as much as I have.

What a climb - what a wind. We made it and the sun is about to set. Give thanks to the mountain spirits, mother earth, and the Great Spirit. Save our Mother.

Pulled a full Monty on Southeast water and plan to make it back to the car before dark (yeah right). Beautiful climb, chippy rock, but midway just found snow way tanyway and dropped tops from the shoulders and below the temples atrocious and with better. SPILL

Ahhh, what a beautiful day! SE Arctic great route with fine moves and great exposure Happy to share summit experience w/ Pat and Maureen.
We feel lucky to have run into them this morning on way up.

First trip to AZ. from NH land of granite and hardwood forests. Have been blessed w/fantastic weather and now look forward to a few more days of climbing and enjoying our vacation together. The stars and wildflowers have been a real source of wonderment and
joy. We like AZ.

Ken Wagenknecht & Dave Condit. 1st climb together, had a great time on SE Arete. Worth the 3 stars from the exposure alone! We're off to climb the Elephants Trunk tomorrow if the weather holds!
