I guess I too doesn't much care about all the new Millennium hoopla, but it is still cool to be up here celebrating it with him.

The world is still out there and it looks mighty fine from Babo. Great way to start a new year.

and I not, this one now?

just another day it's not just yesterday was a nice day and we are going to have a great day

Came alone up the Forbes. Really nice mornings like. My Jack Russell Terrier would have loved it but alas he now is 16 yrs old so he has to wait back at camp. His name is Blencathra Badger and is actually the father of the famous T.V star Jack Russell named 'Wishbone'.

Arizona is a superb state!!!

Mark + Peter up the SE Arête great climb, superb weather Peters best climb yet. I'm coming back in the fall for the Spring route.

1-10-2000 Via "Born of Water"
A very nice and classic route.
Stu Ritchie, Matt Robertson

1-16-2000 Via SE Arête, had a little trouble finding the start (from west approach), but once we got on it it was great! Now we get to go down in the dark - it's 4:45!

Sean Scarlett, Tom Chong

Thank Itoi for the good weather May he forgive us for our trespasses. Saw a dead monkey on Lion's Ledge. Really.

time ascent! We started hiking at 9:42 am; it's now 3:30 pm. We had a great lunch of PBJ's, apples, Red Hot Blues and those awful
looking but great tasting Clif Bars
(thank you Gary + Lisa Clif!).
We met two Europeans on the way up, other than that we've had it all to ourselves. We were told we couldn't summit without ropes
but here we are (who needs ropes?!?).
Eric in his lastops and I in my Tewas, both having great fun: adventuring at its finest. We're privileged to be atop this sacred mountain.
