This would be my 38th Summit trip to
Mt. Babognivari! | hope I never get tired of this place.

(The old log books are in a safe place.)

Once again at the top of Bobognivari.
I feel honored to be a part of this place.

It's still up here. Two butterflies twirl about one and other and the ravens are singing. Only a few days ago we tromped through snow in the chivichwas, but now you would never know. This is a powerful place that resonates with something other than what appears on the surface. They drummed for us last night when we burned sage, helping me remember how glad I am to be alive!

Gorgeous day. Great lead by Paul in his tennis shoes!

nothing but clouds today,
but what Beautiful Land.

We arrived via the ~~SW~~ route. This is a truly beautiful mountain. Cresting the summit, this was an unexpected surprise. I can appreciate and feel the spiritual significance of this special place.

SE Arctc - beware the keeper hanger at the base of the book. ☺ } Wish we could spend the night but the westering sun tells us
it is time to head home.
